Quarterly Fund Commentary

Aggressive investors generated positive returns in the fourth quarter of 2023, as most risk assets recorded strong returns. Robust returns from global and local equities acted as a tailwind to the performance of the Portfolio over the quarter. The firmer rand, however, acted as a headwind to the performance of global asset classes over the quarter.

The WealthStrat Worldwide Flexible Precient Fund of Funds returned +7.0% for the quarter and has generated a return of +21.1% over the past year.

The Portfolio retains a strong bias to global and local equities, which we expect to deliver significant inflation-beating returns in the long term.

Asset Allocation

Offshore equities make up the largest allocation in the Portfolio. Global equities had a robust quarter, with most equity markets ending in positive territory. Given the risk on environment, 10 of the 11 major sectors delivered positive returns for the quarter, with energy the only sector to record a negative number on the back of a falling oil price. Most global equity markets produced strong hard currency performance this quarter, with the rand providing a headwind to performance. Local equities make up the next largest allocation in the Portfolio. Local equities ended the quarter higher, and ended the year in positive territory, however, they lagged the broader emerging market complex. The strength in SA equities was largely driven by the Financials (+11.8%) sector, which ended the quarter posting double digit returns and is the best performing sector for the 2023 calendar year. Index heavyweights Capitec (+19.2%) and Firststrand (+18.8%) both ended in positive territory. Resources (+3.0%), while posting a positive quarter, lagged other sectors, as continued pressure on platinum and energy stocks dampened the return for the sector. Sasol (-29.0%), Impala Platinum Holdings Ltd (-7.7%) and Thungela (-11.4%) all recorded declines over the quarter. On the other hand, gold and iron ore exposed resource companies produced strong returns, as both metal prices moved higher over the quarter. Industrials (+5.9%) produced a positive return this quarter, however, the sector lagged the broader market. The positive return masked the volatile nature of the sector this quarter, on the back of movements in two of the larger listed industrial counters; Prosus and Naspers. Local cash allocations managed to deliver positive returns this quarter, slightly behind most other asset classes. Offshore bond and cash allocations contributed to performance as global fixed income markets produced a strong performance in the final quarter of 2023, benefiting from the anticipated interest rate cuts by the US Federal Reserve in 2024. The firm rand, however, acted as a headwind to the performance of offshore allocations. A small allocation to local listed property contributed to performance this quarter, as the property sector produced a robust performance, as the risk on environment, coupled with strong performance from the larger listed players Growthpoint (+18.2%) and Redefine (+15.8%) led the sector higher. The fund's asset allocation is broadly similar to the previous quarter.

Fund Selection

The contribution from fund selection was all positive.

The Nedgroup Investments Global Emerging Markets Equity FF demonstrated resilience as an Emerging Market fund in a challenging market environment. Despite the strenuous conditions, the fund held up relatively well. The primary contributors to its performance were the exposures to the Technology sector, specifically with investments in TSMC and Samsung Electronics, as well as the Financial Services sector, notably with positions in Bank Pekao. However, it's important to note that the fund faced challenges stemming from its exposure to Chinese companies, including Tencent, Alibaba, and NetEase. The impact of these Chinese investments became the largest detractor from overall fund performance over the quarter.

Nedgroup Investments Core Global FF was a positive contributor to performance. The fund was successful in outperforming its peers over the quarter. The fund's strategic exposure to global property and bonds both benefited from the market's expectation of interest rate cuts in 2024.

The Ninety One Global Franchise FF demonstrated commendable performance over the quarter, surpassing peer funds and aligning with its benchmark. It's important to note that we don't anticipate the fund to outperform significantly during robust market rallies. This is due to the fund's investment philosophy, which leans towards more defensive and stable companies, specifically in the Consumer Staples and Healthcare sectors. These sectors typically lag during sharp market upswings. However, it's worth highlighting that the fund maintains a robust allocation to Technology companies, including Microsoft, ASML, Booking, and VeriSign.

There were no changes made to the underlying funds in the Portfolio in the fourth quarter.

Summary

We are pleased that the Portfolio managed to generate a strong return over the fourth quarter in a particularly strong global and local environment. We remain comfortable with the positioning of the Portfolio, both from an asset allocation and a manager selection perspective. The Portfolio continues to have a large allocation to global and local equities, which we expect to deliver significant inflation-beating returns over the long term. The fund has adhered to its policy objective.

Fund Specific Risks

Default risk: The risk that the issuers of fixed income instruments may not be able to meet interest payments nor repay the money they have borrowed. The issuers credit quality is vital. The worse the credit quality, the greater the risk of default and therefore investment loss.

Derivatives risk: The use of derivatives could increase overall risk by magnifying the effect of both gains and losses in a Fund. As such, large changes in value and potentially large financial losses could result.

Developing Market (excluding SA) risk: Some of the countries invested in may have less developed legal, political, economic and/or other systems. These markets carry a higher risk of financial loss than those in countries generally regarded as being more developed.

Foreign Investment risk: Foreign securities investments may be subject to risks pertaining to overseas jurisdictions and markets, including (but not limited to) local liquidity, macroeconomic, political, tax, settlement risks and currency fluctuations.

Interest rate risk: The value of fixed income investments (e.g. bonds) tends to be inversely related to interest and inflation rates. Hence their value decreases when interest rates and/or inflation rises.

Property risk: Investments in real estate securities can carry the same risks as investing directly in real estate itself. Real estate prices move in response to a variety of factors, including local, regional and national economic and political conditions, interest rates and tax considerations.

Currency exchange risk: Changes in the relative values of individual currencies may adversely affect the value of investments and any related income.

Geographic / Sector risk: For investments primarily concentrated in specific countries, geographical regions and/or industry sectors, their resulting value may decrease whilst portfolios more broadly invested might grow.

Derivative counterparty risk: A counterparty to a derivative transaction may experience a breakdown in meeting its obligations thereby leading to financial loss.

Liquidity risk: If there are insufficient buyers or sellers of particular investments, the result may lead to delays in trading and being able to make settlements, and/or large fluctuations in value. This may lead to larger financial losses than expected.

Equity investment risk: The value of equities (e.g. shares) and equity-related investments may vary according to company profits and future prospects as well as more general market factors. In the event of a company default (e.g. bankruptcy), the owners of their equity rank last in terms of any financial payment from that company.

Disclaimer

Collective Investment Schemes in Securities (CIS) should be considered as medium to long-term investments. The value may go up as well as down and past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance. CIS's are traded at the ruling price and can engage in scrip lending and borrowing. The collective investment scheme may borrow up to 10% of the market value of the portfolio to bridge insufficient liquidity. A schedule of fees, charges and maximum commissions is available on request from the Manager. There is no guarantee in respect of capital or returns in a portfolio. A CIS may be closed to new investors in order for it to be managed more efficiently in accordance with its mandate. CIS prices are calculated on a net asset basis, which is the total value of all the assets in the portfolio including any income accruals and less any permissible deductions (brokerage, STT, VAT, auditor's fees, bank charges, trustee and custodian fees and the annual management fee) from the portfolio divided by the number of participatory interests (units) in issue. Forward pricing is used. The Fund's Total Expense Ratio (TER) reflects the percentage of the average Net Asset Value (NAV) of the portfolio that was incurred as charges, levies and fees related to the management of the portfolio. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. The current TER cannot be regarded as an indication of future TER's. During the phase in period TER's do not include information gathered over a full year. Transaction Costs (TC) is the percentage of the value of the Fund incurred as costs relating to the buying and selling of the Fund's underlying assets. Transaction costs are a necessary cost in administering the Fund and impacts Fund returns. It should not be considered in isolation as returns may be impacted by many other factors over time including market returns, the type of Fund, investment decisions of the investment manager and the TER.

A Fund of Funds is a portfolio that invests in portfolios of collective investment schemes, which levy their own charges, which could result in a higher fee structure for these portfolios.

The Manager retains full legal responsibility for any third-party-named portfolio. Where foreign securities are included in a portfolio there may be potential constraints on liquidity and the repatriation of funds, macroeconomic risks, political risks, foreign exchange risks, tax risks, settlement risks; and potential limitations on the availability of market information. The investor acknowledges the inherent risk associated with the selected investments and that there are no guarantees. Please note that all documents, notifications of deposit, investment, redemption and switch applications must be received by Prescient by or before 13:00 (SA), to be transacted at the net asset value price for that day. Where all required documentation is not received before the stated cut off time Prescient shall not be obliged to transact at the net asset value price as agreed to. Funds are priced at either 3pm or 5pm depending on the nature of the Fund. Prices are published daily and are available on the Prescient website.

Performance has been calculated using net NAV to NAV numbers with income reinvested. The performance for each period shown reflects the return for investors who have been fully invested for that period. Individual investor performance may differ as a result of initial fees, the actual investment date, the date of reinvestments and dividend withholding tax. Full performance calculations are available from the manager on request.

*The investment performance is for illustrative purposes only. The investment performance is calculated by taking the actual initial fees and all ongoing fees into account for the amount shown and income is reinvested on the reinvestment date.
